LEWIS SCHEME FOR GETTING MONEY IS FULL OF TROUBLE

Commissioner Wright
Says Lapsing of State
Road Funds Would Be Fatal to Road Jobs.

SHOWS THE RESULT

Harrisburg, June 4.—Highway Commissioner Paul D. Wright today said the Pennsylvania Highway Department during the next two years will have total revenues $20,000,000 less than its actual requirements, even though the legislature allows the Department to retain the $11,000,000 appropriations made in previous years, but never paid because of insufficient revenue.

If the legislature lapses the $11,000,000 appropriations referred to the Department revenues for the next two years will be $31,000,000 less than the requirements.

It has been suggested the legislative drop from the General Appropriation bill $1,000,000 allotted the State Highway Department for the next two years for General Salary and Expenses; and if this is done, the revenues will be $32,000,000 less than the requirements.

"It will be unfortunate if the legislature fails to pass the State Highway Department," said Commissioner Wright today. "The State is just beginning to find daylight through the bad roads tunnel. But the Commonwealth must not lessen its road-building activities until the State has all the durable highways it requires. This is not a summer's job—it will mean strenuous activity for years to come. A thousand miles of highway on the Primary System are totally unimproved. There are many miles of so called improved roads on that system which are of such type their maintenance under modern traffic is a tremendous expense. This mileage must be replaced by the Department with modern roads. Pennsylvania has been pointing to its road building activities. It can not afford to lose a place in the van of progressive American states."

Appropriations made by the 1917, 1919 and 1921 legislatures, and never paid to the Department because of insufficient revenue in the State Treasury, totalled as follows:

State Highway Construction, $3,700,000; State-aid Highway Construction, $6,850,000; State-aid Maintenance and Repairs, $240,000; Borough-aid Maintenance and Repairs, $285,000. This is a total of $10,875,000.

Pinchot Approves State Control Over All County Road Building Projects

Harrisburg, June 4.—Governor Pinchot vetoed the bill of Senator Sones, yesterday, which would have granted sole jurisdiction over the construction and maintenance of county roads where only county funds are expended to county commissioners without first obtaining approval of the state highway department.

The Governor pointed out that the present plan provides a "uniform system of road improvement and a joint check of all plans and specifications, bids, contracts and inspections of all improvements in which county money is used," and declared that "all of these mutual advantages would be eliminated on all roads other than state and state aid if this bill were approved."

"The system under the present acts does not deprive the counties of exercising a discretion in these matters," the Governor said, "but provides a dual check whereby both state and county must be satisfied before work is accepted and money paid."

LEGISLATURE WILL HAVE HANDS FULL DURING THE WEEK

Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.—After an eleven day recess over Memorial Day the legislators returned here today determined to clear up in the next two months the mountain of work which has accumulated during the last five months.

Aside from the Governors' dry bill other important issues to come before this legislature remains today to be settled between now and the end of the session.

The House must decide upon a tax program and pass upon the Pinchot code, while the Senate has before it the general appropriations bill with the necessity of voting upon the $250,000 item for law enforcement.

The dry question returned to the center of the arena today to worry the members during the closing days of the session. Although the Governor's dry bill was long since enacted three supplemental bills, licensing breweries and wholesale liquor, and regulation of traffic in alcohol remained on the calendar for decision.

It was known that Pinchot would not feel his enforcement legislation in any way complete if these bills were not enacted into the law to support his main code.

Isaiah Jury And Good Wife Celebrate Their Fiftieth Anniversary

The brothers and sisters, children grandchildren and great grandchildren of Isaiah Jury and Mary Shaw Jury, gathered at the Jury home on the bluff overlooking the Susquehanna River in Girard Township on Saturday June 2 where the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of this respected couple was fittingly celebrated. Within a few years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Jury purchased the place and erected the home where they now live, and where they reared their family.

Isaiah Jury is the oldest of a family of seven sons and six daughters and represents one of the very oldest families in the United States. His father served in the Civil War, his grandfather in the war of 1848 and several Indian campaigns, his great grandfather in the war of 1812, and his great-great grandfather in the Revolutionary War, while, as a matter of course, numerous members of this old family participated in the late World War. Of Holland Dutch ancestry, the forefathers of this widely diffused family, came to America in the early days of the settlement by the Holland Dutch of the territory about the Hudson and of New Amsterdam, now New York City.

Mrs. Jury likewise comes from a pioneer family, being one of the

CANADIAN BOOZE WILL SOON BE GUSHING THRU THE FLOODGATE LEFT OPEN BY GOVERNOR SMITH

Ottawa, Canada, June 4.—Huge cargoes of Canadian beer and liquor are moving toward the international boundary on their way to New York State as a result of the repeal of the prohibition enforcement law there.

Canadian officials, stationed along the border, report that rum runners are now actively engaged with plans to flood New York with Dominion "hard stuff."

Enloe Bell, 28, Son of Green Bell, Struck By Bolt Saturday Evening During Fierce Storm.

WAS INSIDE HOUSE

Enloe H. Bell, twin son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bell, of Bell's Landing, was struck by lightning and instantly killed at his home in Bell's Landing, about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon last.

Mr. Bell and his wife had arranged to go out in their car Saturday evening and he was in the pantry helping Mrs. Bell wash the supper dishes when the severe electrical storm, which passed over that section broke. A bolt of lightning struck a telephone pole near the house and following the line to where the electric wire was attached, jumped onto the light wire and made its way into the house. Mr. Bell was standing directly underneath the light globe in the pantry and received the full force of the lightning. Mrs. Bell, who was standing close beside her husband, was also knocked down and badly stunned, while one arm was severely burned. She quickly regained consciousness and running to a neighbor's house gave the alarm and secured assistance.

Mr. Bell's body was at once taken out onto the front porch and every effort made to revive him, but it was of no avail, as it was apparent from the condition of the body that death had been instantaneous.

Enloe Bell, who was aged 28 years, 7 months and 8 days, was a miner by occupation and an industrious, upright young man, whose untimely death will be sorely mourned.

He leaves a widow and one child. His parents and the following brothers and sisters also survive him: Percy, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Perry, of Erie, Pa.; Fred, of Akron, Ohio; Wace, of Mahaffey; Ord, of Bell's Landing; Earl, Harry and Eva, at home.

The funeral will be held from the church at Bell's Landing Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. Interment at Lumber City.

ENTERTAINS SISTER WHO WILL BE BRIDE

Mrs. S. C. Kirk of West Third avenue entertained Friday evening at a shower in honor of her sister, Miss Dorothy LaBord, of Curwensville, whose marriage to Mr. Charles I. Keller, of Pittsburgh, will be an event of the near future.

The dining room was tastefully decorated, the color scheme pink and white being effectively carried out. Covers were laid for fourteen.

BELLEFOONTE BOY CHIEF RADIO OPERATOR ON THE LEVIATHAN

Raymond J. Green, who had been in charge of the radio station at the Bellefonte aerial field for some time, has secured an appointment as chief operator or superintendent of the radio equipment of the palatial steamer Leviathan, formerly the Vatterland, which started her trial trip from Boston yesterday. There were 40 applicants for the position.

WORK ON MOOSE TEMPLE BEGUN

SHRINERS, FRIGHTENED AT CROWD EXPECTED IN WASHINGTON, DECIDE IN FAVOR OF STAYING AT HOME

Washington, D. C. June 4.—With a small number of visitors in town, Shriners week got under way here today with a varied program of pageants, band concerts and other events as scheduled to keep this city in carnival mood until Friday.

St Louis Has Good Idea

Too enthusiastic advertising and boasting was held responsible for the failure of thousands of expected Shriners and their families to arrive. They were frightened away by reports of the large number expected to come and probable lack of sufficient accommodation. This was indicated when the St. Louis Temple sent word its members would remain at home, using the money the trip would cost to build a hospital. They said they understood there was no room here anyway.

State Council O. U. A. M. Convenes Here June 12; 100 Delegates Coming

The State Council of the Order United American Men will meet in Clearfield on Tuesday, June 12th, and continue in session for three days. This is one of the pioneer patriotic organizations in Pennsylvania and its membership is made up of some of the most substantial citizens of the State and Clearfield people should extend the State officers, delegates and the visitors who will come with them a genuine welcome to our town.

This is not the first visit to Clearfield of the State Council O. U. A. M. and as the State officers and delegates appreciated the treatment given them on their previous visit enough to want to come back we should all see that they have every reason to leave our town after this session with equally as pleasant recollection of Clearfield.

Howard Holstein, President of the State Fireman's Association and well known to many Clearfielders, is State Secretary of the O. U. A. M. and will be in Clearfield during the entire session.

There will be approximately 100 delegates and a considerable number of visitors at the convention.

ACUTE PTOMAIN POISONING SEIZES WEDDING GUESTS

New York, N. Y., June 2.—Thirty-two guests at a wedding party including the bride and groom, were stricken with ptomaine poisoning. Physicians believe all will recover.

The guests at the wedding party of Conrad Kissel, aged twenty-four, were making merry when suddenly the laughter began dying out and groans and wails replaced it. Alarms were sent to hospitals and shortly afterward ambulances were clanging at the door and backing in among the decorated automobiles.

Physicians said the illness was caused by some of the food eaten during the feasting but which variety was responsible could not be determined.

Needs Of Local Post Office Ablly Presented To Senators By Shillingford And Bigler

RUE WILL RUE THE DAY HE FLIVVERED INTO THIS COUNTY

Edward Rue, Jr., a Cambria county resident, will, for several days at least, rue the day when he came sky-larking in his Henry into the West-over country. Rue had a couple of friends with him in the Ford and they also were accompanied by a pint of moonshine which had been severely dealt with during the journey. One or two of the party showed evidence of their battle with the bottle and when County Detective Snyder happened along and "lamped" the party things began to happen.

The Ford was halted and Rue placed under arrest. He appeared before Judge Bell this morning on a plea of guilty to a charge of violating the liquor law and was sentenced to pay $100 fine and costs and serve 30 days in jail. Provided, however, that upon payment of the fine costs, Rue may make application for parole from further jail sentence or June 9th.

Women Deplore Way Dr. Finegan Is Treated; Say Effect Is Demoralizing

Deploping the treatment accorded Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, whose acceptance or declination of temporary reappointment as state superintendent of public instruction still hung in the balance yesterday, the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters expressed regret at the possibility of it having a deleterious effect on the state legislature.

The league issued a statement yesterday in which was included the expression that "it would be regrettable if the legislature should feel any lack of interest in providing necessary state funds for public education, owing to any impression they might receive that the school legislation of 1921, as amended by the legislature of 1923, was not to be enforced and that money would not be required to maintain the standards already set."

The statement characterized the present status of the head of the state educational system and author of the school program now being followed in this state as, among other things, "demoralizing to the school system," and as "unfortunately tending, consciously or unconsciously, to undermine the confidence of the people of Pennsylvania in the school program which has raised the state from the rank of 21 among the states of the Union to a place close to the top."

"The indecisiveness as suggested by the offer of a temporary appointment to Doctor Finegan," says the statement, "is most unexpected. Analyzing the cause of the Governor's indecision, the statement says that, in the case, 'one of two things must be true. Either Doctor Finegan is unfit or he is fit for the job. If he is un-

JUDGE CORBET HAS A HABIT OF SAYING "SIX MONTHS" TO THE BOOTLEGGERS

At a special session of the court of quarter sessions held Saturday in Brookville Judge Charles Corbet handed out some salty sentences. The cases were those in which the defendants entered pleas of guilty and thus saved themselves from trial at the regular session of criminal court. Most of the sentences were for liquor and automobile law violations.

Max Paluggapi, of Sykesville, charged with violation of the liquor laws, was fined $500, costs of prosecution and sentenced to serve six months in the Allegheny workhouse.

Guy Kunselman, of Brookville, charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to serve six months in the Allegheny workhouse.

Tony Vitello, of Brookwayville, charged with transporting and possessing liquor, was fined $250, costs of prosecution and sentenced to serve three months in the Allegheny workhouse.

Charles Mable, charged with the same offense, was fined $100 and costs.

W. J. McIntyre, of Reynoldsville, charged with transporting and possessing liquor, was fined $500 and costs of prosecution.

W. CLARK MILLER NAMED UMPIRE BY COAL OPERATORS

Altoona, June 4.—At a meeting of the board of the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers' association and the Association of Bituminous Coal Operators, held Saturday afternoon in the Lincoln Trust building, W. Clark Miller, a prominent Clearfield attorney, was chosen permanent umpire to adjust differences between operators and the United Mine Workers of America in the district that may arise in connection with the scale agreement.

Mr. Miller succeeds the late ex-Judge Allison O. Smith, also of Clearfield. Mr. Miller is not identified in any way with the coal industry.

The final draft of the coal operators' brief, setting forth the facts of the industry from their standpoint to be presented to the United States fact-finding commission, was approved and it will be sent to the commission headed by John Hays Hammond within the next few days.

A survey of conditions in the district revealed a rather dull situation in the district at the present time, with many mines being operated only on half time. The tendency among

OUTLOOK HOPEFUL

Clearfield citizens today, seeing their post office troubles to the highest court in the state—to the United States Senators. Senators Pepper and Reed arrived in Clearfield yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock from Glen Campbell where they had been the guests of Senator and Mrs. Joseph O. Clark. Mrs. Pepper, Mrs. Reed and Charles P. Swapp, Secretary to Senator Pepper made up the party.

All during the evening the two senators were greeted by their constituents at the Dimmeling Hotel where they stopped after having been entertained at dinner, the guests of Public Service Commissioner John W. Reed, and visitors found their new senators to be the most democratic of men, willing and eager to listen to the needs of the community.

The party appeared bright and early this morning after a refreshing night of sleep in the mountain air of the valley of the Susquehanna and were kept busy, up to nine o'clock shaking hands with their many admirers who visited the hotel. At that hour the conference with, eager, anxious business men of Clearfield was scheduled and the Dimmeling ball room was comfortably filled with eager, anxious business men of the community to the number of over one hundred who turned out to find weight and influence to the presentation of Clearfield's greatest problem by the selected spokesman, Hon. Harry A. Boulton presiding, stating in a few well selected remarks the purpose of the meeting, reviewed briefly the trials and tribulations of the citizens of this city during the last ten years in the matter of post office service and welcomed the senators to the city. He then called on W. Clark Shillingford, spokesman selected by the two clubs to present the formal complaint on the postal service. Mr. Shillingford drew from his own experience at considerable length in outlining the nature of the inefficient service and cited many cases which had been brought to his attention. He gave the senators a word picture of the city, its industries, its business and said it was a compliment to the business interests of this city that they could continue to grow and prosper under the handicaps of the present postal service. He voiced the feeling of everyone present when he said he regretted that the meeting with the senators could not be one of a purely social nature but trusted that on their next visit there would be no complaint to make.

A. D. Bigler, chosen by the clubs to diagnose the ills of the Clearfield post office and present the complaint, subject to the approval of the "Pepper-Reed-New clinic," then took the floor and gave the senators a review of the postal situation here in which they listened with rapt attention. Mr. Bigler first made it plain that the people are not now interested in a federal building or additional equipment to any great extent except as to typewriters, adding machines and such other necessary equipment as adds to clerk efficiency, but that the difficulty is in an inadequate personnel, there being only eight clerks and five carriers to do what other offices doing only from fifty to sixty per cent as much business have from ten to twelve clerks to do. Neither speaker had any criticism to make of the post masters, past or present, nor of "Temporary appointment" offered Superintendent of Public Instruction Thomas Finegan by Governor Pinchot has become today a question involving the legislature itself in political interest.

Finegan said today he would give his answer to Pinchot tomorrow. The Governor stated he had not in any way changed his position in spite of the amount of criticism his offer had stirred up.

School authorities from various sections of the state were gathered here today to discuss the situation. Among others, the Advisory Education Committee, created by the Pinchot Citizens Committee and the Legislative Committee of the State Association of School Superintendents assembled here to consider the situation created by the possible ending of the Finegan regime.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

We have found out the past few days that he who mixeth deviled crabs with strawberries and cream not only maketh trouble and great pain for himself, but realizes that such dampfoolishness persisted in will make his days short in the land. 'Yea! verily; it is even so.'

We have often heard of the year 1816, which all weather sharks assert without fear of contradiction was the year without a summer. We have run across the following record of the weather for that summer and present it herewith that you may judge for yourself how cold it was:—

April.
The medium temperature of this month was 47. It commenced mild, but did not maintain its credit; as Jack Frost came along mounted upon a cold, boisterous northwester, and made everything tremble and shiver before him. The blustering snow squalls which followed, would have been more suitable for January than April. After the wind lulled, ice formed on several nights, half an inch thick, which destroyed all the buds, and almost every green thing.

May.
The medium temperature of this month was 57, and she was really a frosty jade. Her frowns were many and her smiles few. Northerly winds, with cold frosty nights prevailed until every green thing was killed or withered. A melancholy hue appeared to seal the fate of all vegetable life. Buds and small fruits froze upon the trees. On some mornings there was ice from a quarter to half an inch thick, in exposed situation. Corn was replanted two or three times, and very little ever came to perfection. Westerly and southwest winds prevailed but seven days during the whole month. There were two northeast rainstorms.

June.
The medium temperature of this month was only 64, and it was the coldest month of June we ever remember; there were not only severe frosts on several mornings, but one morning there was said to be ice. Every green herb was killed and vegetables of every description very much injured. All kinds of fruit had been previously destroyed, as not a month had passed without producing ice. From six to ten inches of snow fell in various parts of Vermont; three inches in the interior of New York, and several inches in the interior of New Hampshire and Maine.

July.
The medium or average temperature of this month was only 68, and it was a month of melancholy forebodings, as during every previous month since the year commenced there were not only heavy frosts, but ice, so that very few vegetables came to perfection. It seemed as though the sun had lost its warm and cheering influences. One frosty night was succeeded by another, and thin ice formed in many exposed situations in the country. On the morning of the fifth there was ice as thick as window glass in Pennsylvania, New York and through New England. Indian corn was chilled and withered, and the grass was so much chilled and withered by repeated frosts, that grazing cattle would scarcely eat it. Northerly winds prevailed a great part of the month, and when the wind changed to the west, and produced a pleasant day, it was a subject of consternation by all. Very little rain fell during the month.

August.
The medium temperature for this month was only 66 and such a cheerless, desponding, melancholy summer month the oldest inhabitant never, perhaps, experienced. This poor month entered upon its duties so perfectly chilled as to be unable to raise one warm foggy morning or cheerful sunny day. It commenced with a cold northeast rainstorm, and when it cleared the atmosphere was so chilled as to produce ice in many places half an inch thick. It froze the Indian corn, which was in the milk, so hard that it rotted up on the stock, and farmers mowed it down and dried it for cattle fodder. Every green thing was destroyed not only in this country but in Europe. Newspapers received from England said: "It will ever be remembered by the present generation, that the year 1816 was a year in which there was no summer." Indian corn, raised in Pennsylvania in 1816 sold for seed to plant in the spring of 1817 for $4 a bushel in many places.

September.
More than two weeks of the mildest and pleasantest weather there had been during the whole season. The twenty-third brought a cold northeast wind and for several successive nights water froze a quarter of an inch thick in shallow ponds October.

On several mornings ice was a quarter of an inch thick. There was, however, one week of very mild and pleasant weather.

Isaiah Jury and Good Wife Celebrate

Shaws who lived fifty years ago in the vicinity of Wallacetown. In her young womanhood she was one of the prominent and most talented of Clearfield County's school teachers.

The passage of the years has dealt kindly with this couple who have spent half a century by each other's side. Keen of mind and intellect they are interesting to listen to. Their tales of the early trials and hardships is heating out a home in the wild country along the river in the early days are fascinating. Isaiah points with graphic description to the spots where he had to wrest the ownership of his land from the possession of copperheads and rattleers in such numbers that they had made previous settlement and clearance of this particular farm an impossibility. Likewise he turns to tales of the days when bands of wolves rushed along the tops of the mountains and down their sides to the banks of the rivers, their howls making the long nights of winter hideous and their presence life dangerous. Also his interesting anecdotes of the days of lumber and rafting and the fishing when the Susquehanna was alive with the finest specimens of the finny tribe, held one spell bound.

Mr. and Mrs. Jury have had four children, to whom have been born fifteen grand children and two great grandchildren.

Among the more than a hundred persons who enjoyed the wonderful dinner in honor of these people were the following persons and their families: Simon Jury, Wash Jury, Curt Jury, William Jury, J. Edward Jury, all brothers; J. G. Mames and family, John Weiner and family; A. L. Murray and wife; Kyler Murray; John Palmer and family; Jno. M. Bain, wife and daughter; Carlton Cramer, Mrs. Elizabeth Livergood (a daughter), Mrs. D. A. Mames Herman Palmer and family; E. B. McGonigal and family; Arthur Jury and family; Paul Smith and family, and numerous other friends, neighbors and relatives.

Twenty-six years ago Isaiah Jury with his brothers and sisters celebrated the golden wedding anniversary of their parents, who were permitted to enjoy life together for sixty years.

Following the dinner photographs were made of the hosts and of their guests, music was furnished by the "Jury Drum Corps" and brief and appropriate remarks were made by J. G. Mames, A. L. Murray and Jno. M. Bain. Mr. Mames presented some tokens of the regards of guests to Mr. and Mrs. Jury in his usual excellent manner, after which the guests departed with sincere wishes for a much longer enjoyment of life to those they had gathered to honor.

LANCASTER FIRE CHIEF'S AUTO "TAGGED" BY HYDRANT

Lancaster, Pa., June 2.—Fire Chief Keyel was "tagged" today when he parked his brilliant red automobile in front of a fireplug downtown. The officer waited until the chief appeared and handed him the card instructing Keyel to call at the police station. The ensuing argument took place.

"That's an official car and it can be parked anywhere," said the fire chief. "It has four tires, an engine and a lot of nice paint, and it looks like any other car to me," said the cop. "Tell it to the chief."

"The fire chief has 24 hours in which to 'tell it to the police chief.'"

Entered in Post Office at Clearfield, Pa., as second class mail matter.

Will the post office of Clearfield be given more help with which to handle the great increase in the business? That is the question that is being asked today.

Some may think that it is within the province of the two U. S. Senators to "so order" and the thing will be done. But it is not so simple. Economy is the golden rule of the Harding administration. It is the keynote of the Pennsylvania State government, although this has nothing to do with the post office. It is, however, the style nowadays in government. Executives all over the nation are frowning on additional expenditures. They must be shown and shown conclusively that a need exists before additional obligations are incurred. It is gratifying that this is so. No longer is the pork barrel left off or the plum tree bearing.

Once there is proof that a necessity exists it ceases to be economy to ignore the call of that necessity. Such a condition we believe, pertains as to the Clearfield post office. Senators Reed and Pepper, who were the guests of the business men here, are convinced. They were given the proof and have affirmed the general opinion.

It is their privilege and duty to make known our plight to the Post Office Department, and it is their province to show the Post Office Department that service comes before economy. They will do by recourse to personal contact with the officials of the Post Office Department. Although young in the United States Senate, by sheer ability they occupy places of unusual weight and influence and if their combined efforts do not bring results, Clearfield must resign itself to the inevitable and suffer forever. Such is our confidence in the ability of Messrs. Pepper and Reed. Both gentlemen listened intently and earnestly to the plea for a paltry three additional men in our post office as they would to a weighty tariff, immigration or foreign policy debate. Rather than delegate the carrying through of our petition to a subordinate, as they could have done and many a Senator would have done, they took it upon their own shoulders to see if justice could be done. Senator Reed remarked, "You have given us some job, but you have shown us a reason for the assignment and you have a right to demand. We are your hired men and we are anxious to perform the duties imposed upon us. It has been a real pleasure to visit here just for the reason that you have shown confidence enough in us to bring your difficulties to us for solution. That is the purpose of our visit. We want to know what we can do." Neither enlivened the course he would follow.

Now, when can we expect results, if any? We have been patient for many years. Our patience is at an end, but we can be reasonable. We must give the Senators time; not a year, not six months, not three months, but something ought to happen within six weeks at the outside and possibly less than that.

Clearfield business men, after this informal meeting with our representative in the highest legislative branch of our government, have an all abiding confidence in their ability to produce results. Both men are of the type that command respect, attention and following. Their remarks rang true and sincere and they gave every indication of a sympathetic understanding of the problem confronting the citizens of Clearfield.

Interest naturally centered in the Junior Senator, David A. Reed. We know and know of George Wharton Pepper, big hearted, whole hearted Pepper, friend of Roosevelt, military churchman, patriot. It was good to meet him face to face. Now we are convinced that he has a team mate who matches perfectly. About Reed there is a stamp of earnestness and sincerity that compels admiration and respect.

Pennsylvania could be no more ably represented in that august body, the United States Senate, More power to their elbows.

UNIONISM HAS NON-UNION MINE (From the Harrisburg Patriot.)

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers some time ago purchased a coal mine in West Virginia. From that day to this it has been operated on a non-union basis. The miners' union officials are protesting. The Brotherhood officials show no sign of surrender. The mine will be operated as it has been, they intimate.

This is a rather striking illustration of what happens when unionism undertakes the responsibility of an employer. As the Brotherhood sees it, there is no hostility to unionism. The union miner is employed side by side with the non-union miner. Neither is employed to the exclusion of the other.

The Brotherhood in its policy of not discriminating on the question of unionism or non-unionism, is adhering to a fundamental principle in American life that a man may work where he pleases and that no man shall prevent him from working if he chooses to do so. It will be interesting to observe how this novel experiment results.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that the Government need not prove the alcoholic content of whisky or whether it was fit for beverage purposes, in cases where indictment charge violation of dry laws in which the liquor is specified as whisky.

This ruling was contained in an opinion written by Judge Henry Wade Rogers, in which Judges Martin T. Manton and Julius M. Mayer concurred.

The opinion was rendered in affirming sentence imposed last November by Federal Judge Mack on seven bootleggers convicted of bringing 160 barrels of whisky from Canada into the United States, on the representation that it was in transit to Havana.

Disposing of the main contention of the plaintiffs that the Canadian whisky did not contain more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, Judge Rogers said:

"Under this statute (prohibition) it is our opinion that if an indictment alleges a violation of the act as respects 'whisky' it is not necessary for the Government to show that the whisky contained one-half per centum or more of alcohol by volume, or that the whisky was fit for beverage purposes. If it is shown that the acts were committed with respect to 'whisky' which acts the statute prohibited, the alcoholic content need not be proven. We think that the language of the act is not capable of any other construction."

Lloyd George Ready To Stage Political Comeback In England

Sweep of Events Shaping to Make Him Formal Leader of the Liberal Party

By J. W. T. MASON

(Written for the United Press)
New York, June 2 (United Press)—Lloyd George is coming back in British politics. Since his loss of the premiership, he has been in a position of isolation; but events are shaping to make him the formal leader of the Liberal Party, and thus put him in the running to be the head of the government again.

Ever since Herbert Asquith was forced to resign as Prime Minister and was succeeded by Lloyd George, in the midst of the war, the British Liberal Party has been split into two rival camps. The Asquithians have in their control all the political machinery of the party and Lloyd George, even during the time he was the head of the Coalition Ministry, was not leader of the Liberals. That post is still held officially by Asquith.

But, the power of Asquith has gone. His prestige has been overshadowed by Lloyd George's and he has been accused of being a bad loser and of being under the control of his wife, who is personally very bitter against Lloyd George.

Union Demanded

The only way the Liberal Party can recover its lost ground is by a union of the two dissenting wings. Lloyd George is working toward this goal; but Asquith is opposing any truce with the Georgians.

The Asquith followers explain that there is no necessity for any reconciliation. If Lloyd George and his associates wish to rejoin the Liberal Party, all they have to do is to enroll themselves in the organization and no more will be said.

This attitude is theoretically correct. When people leave a political party, that is the way they can come back. But the Lloyd George argument is that Lloyd George didn't leave the Liberals; they left him. Furthermore, Lloyd George's followers claim Lloyd George is too important a personage and has done too much for this country to be humiliated by being treated simply as a casual member of the Liberal Party's rank and file.

The true reason for the struggle is that Asquith fears any compromise with Lloyd George would mean Lloyd George's election to Asquith's present post as party leader. Therefore, every possible reason is advanced to explain why a reconciliation cannot be attempted, or why impossible conditions must be imposed. Having the party machinery under his control, Asquith for the moment has the upper hand.

May Force Union

But, the temperamental disputes of political leaders cannot long be endured by the subordinate and younger members, who consider they are being kept from office by the quarrels of their elders. There is a fast growing tendency among the members of the Liberal Party to take matters in their own hands and to call upon Asquith either to procure a victory or to consent to a formal reconciliation with the Lloyd George party.

By no possibility can the Liberals hope for a victory while the present rift continues. At the recent general election they ran third, and were forced to give way to the Labor Party as the official Opposition in the House of Commons. There can be no change in this position while Lloyd George and his men are not offered terms to come back. This fact is Lloyd George's principal argument and is winning the day for him. The spoils of office will be within the Liberals' reach under Lloyd George's leadership. That fact is bringing Lloyd George back.

Playground Activities Take On New Impetus As Weather Warms Up

The season for opening the Community Service playgrounds is approaching rapidly and brings forward for discussion some important matters. The grounds need a certain amount of work done on them either when first used last season or to make some improvements as the normal second year advance.

As these playgrounds are really wanted and appreciated by the fathers and mothers in the various contributing communities, it is expected that when the call for help comes there will be a very general response. A few hours' work by a number of men going at it systematically should be all that is necessary to put things in order. Those who have the need and success of the playgrounds on their minds are asked to particularly notice this and be ready to organize a working force on short notice.

ROSSITER YOUTH IS HONORED AT COLLEGE

At a recent meeting, the dean and faculty of the Dickinson law school elected Sebastian Pugliese, of Rossiter, an honor student.

This promising young man is a graduate of Indiana Normal, class of 1921. He entered Dickinson in the fall of 1921 and will graduate next June, after which event he will take examinations for admission to the bar.

Mine Foreman James McConville was in town this morning on his way back to his work at "White Mule," Indiana county, after spending Sunday at his home in Philipsburg.

HORSE SHOE NOTES

Community Service and the officers of the local Horseshoe Club are doing their best to push the organization of the state club which is still in the air. They understand that the incentive to join the Clearfield club will be much stronger when it can be part of a larger one. However, a large and thriving association here will carry much more weight so all who are interested in this sport are asked to enlist now members and help get things in shape for the season. Instead of an open tournament, free for all, the plan this year is to have a league composed of as many of smaller clubs who normally pitch together and playing the winners. The forming of these smaller clubs will be started this week and the leaders of the group in the various organizations are asked to be lining up their possible members. There may also be a sort of division between those who pitch the old style shoe simply for recreation and those who are in the game with the new style. The idea is that it will be more interesting for both.

BASEBALL NOTES

Everything set for the opening game, a record crowd for a home talent team is expected.

All fans get out their cars and join in the parade that forms on Market toward the river. It will move promptly at 3 p. m. led by the crack Legion Band.

Team in fine shape. Manager Pierce will put on the finishing touches this week.

Mayor "Kit" will throw out the first ball for the opening game. Philipsburg coming over strong. They expect to take home the bacon.

Trimmed With Handwork

Nothing is so pretty for children's togs as touches of hand embroidery. One bloomer suit is made with a short dress trimmed with a cross-stitch bunny border. A new style is seen in the frock whose sleeves are part of the front and back and neatly joined by the embroidery on the shoulder. Lazy-daisy and running stitches are used for the designs on the other two suits.

WEST SIDE METHODISTS

"CARRY-ON"

With the walls of their old church building razed to make way for the handsome edifice to be erected in its stead, West Side Methodists held their services in the Agricultural building at the Driving Park, yesterday. This location will be maintained until the tabernacle, which is planned to house the congregation until the new church is completed, can be erected on the Martin street site provided for that purpose.

There was an attendance of 541 at the Sunday school session and despite the disorganization of departments due to the division of the school in groups that could be accommodated by new quarters, the exercises of the morning were soon going smoothly. Supt. H. L. Shaw and his staff of officers and teachers were on hand early to prepare the new quarters and by the end of the session the school was functioning almost as orderly as it has been accustomed to in its old home. By next Sunday all the classes will be definitely settled and the school can again resume "business as usual."

Church services are being held in the left wing of the Agricultural building. This has proved a most satisfactory meeting place, being especially welcome these warm days because of its beautiful location and its breezy, open-air comfort. Both regular services yesterday were especially well attended.

TRINITY CHURCH ITEMS

Yesterday's session of the Bible school opened with a stirring musical program, then came the missionary study and exercises under direction of Superintendent Henry B. Powell, Jr., followed by a filled-up study period on Jeremiah. Attendance 446, less by 67 than last year's Sunday; offering $77.45.

In both morning and evening congregations the men outnumbered the women. More comment was made on the exposition of Jude 3 and by most of the men in the church than has been heard on any discourse preached during the pastorate of Rev. Jacobs.

Messrs George and Morella Cole, came over from Altoona on Wednesday for a short visit with Mrs. Martha Cole, on Anderson street. Mrs. Cole being their aunt.

In the evening the text, 1 Cor. 1:21 was very pointedly expounded.

At Mt. Zion, in the afternoon, Rev. Joseph E. Gearhart was assisted by Pastor Jacobs, who baptized two infants and administered the Lord's Supper to everyone in the school house except two persons. His sermon was based on the Lord's own question, "What think ye of Christ?"

Events for the week: Monday, Queen Esther Circle, 7:30; Wednesday mid-week congregational meeting, followed by official board; Thursday, 3 p. m., Ladies' Aid Society; to 7, fine lunch, 35c in charge of Mrs. Gearhart's group, F. Some things you should know about your heart

THE first thing a physician examines, when summoned, is the heart pulse. A normal heart will beat one hundred and three thousand times each day. You depend on it to beat the blood of your life. You realize the heart should not have to work constantly to throw off blood poisons. It is impurities which impede the heart beat. More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. More heart-power, because all the nerves are fed by your blood. Means freedom from pimples, from blackheads, from boils, eczema and skin eruptions; from rheumatic impurities, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you! S. S. S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced.

Mr. Arthur A. Smith, 509 S. Ada St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "After suffering with bad boils, I commenced using S. S. S. I wish to say that it came up to all expectations, and relieved me of boils. I wish to express my appreciation for what S. S. S. did for me."

ALL-STAR CAST IN "THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY"

An all-star cast will be seen in the American Legion's film classic, "The Man Without a Country," when it opens tomorrow at the Driggs theater. The remarkable photoplay will be presented under the auspices of John Shade Post of the American Legion for the benefit of sick, disabled and needy ex-service men and for the promotion of "Americanism."

"The Man Without a Country," an eight reel picture, combines with the immortal story of this name, the romantic points in the nation's history from post-Revolutionary days to the beginning of the World War. It is not a war picture, rather a great love story of adventure and romance made pleasant with dashes of mystery. There is portrayed in the screen version, every character of love from the love of a man for a maid to the passionate love of country, said by philosophers to be the greatest of all. The picture is said to be too big too great, to attempt a complete description of it. Every dramatic critic who has seen the picture has been lavish in praising it. One of the New York reviewers said: "No word thus far spoken, no picture thus far shown contains so much inspiration for Americans."

The picture is being exhibited throughout the country under sponsorship of the American Legion. Every American is called upon to see it.

FOR THE YOUNG AMERICAN

There is no piece of literature that stands out so prominently in the quality of instilling Americanism and love of country in the modern youth as Nathan Hales "The Man Without a Country."

It was indeed a happy thought that possessed the American Legion when they decided to bring this story to Clearfield in film form.

It will be shown at the Driggs Theatre tomorrow. The public and parochial schools will be dismissed at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon in order that all the boys and girls who can muster up the necessary fifteen cents will be enabled to see the picture and thus receive an evening crowd.

The school pupils matinee will be at 3:15 p. m. Regular hours during the evening. Revivify your patriotic impulses by seeing this film tomorrow evening.

Just because it is now known that painful, sore, aching swollen feet are caused by the many joints in the foot and Joint-Ease soaks right in and gets to the seat of the trouble—the cartilage and ligaments of the joints.

Well, better late than never—just stop the powdering and medical-bathing and other foolishness for three days and just rub on Joint-Ease. And remember when stainless Joint-Ease goes in foot agony goes out—quick—60 cents a tube.

THREE KILLED WHEN THEY STEP IN FRONT OF EXPRESS TRAIN

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 4.—While on their way to their home at Parkburg on the Conemaugh Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad at 12:42 o'clock this morning, three persons were struck and instantly killed by train No. 911, known as the Pittsburgh and Buffalo Express.

The dead are: Margaret Parrill, aged forty-three, Charles Blair, aged sixty, and Charles Alotasky, aged forty-two, all of Parkburg, Pa.

The two men and woman were walking on the railroad track towards Hulton and were returning to their homes when the accident occurred. It is believed they remained on the river side of the railroad track to let a coal train, south bound pass. As the caboose passed the three stepped to the passenger track, and unable to hear the roar of the north bound express train which was traveling between fifty miles and sixty miles an hour were run down. The three were ground beneath the wheels of the locomotive before the train could be brought to a stop.

The bodies were removed to the undertaking establishment of Joseph Katz & Sons of Verona.

LEWIS SCHEME FOR GETTING MONEY IS FULL OF TROUBLE

Commissioner Wright Says Lapsing of State Road Funds Would Be Fatal to Road Jobs.

SHOWS THE RESULT

Harrisburg, June 4.—Highway Commissioner Paul D. Wright today said the Pennsylvania Highway Department during the next two years will have total revenues $20,000,000 less than its actual requirements, even though the legislature allows the Department to retain the $11,000,000 appropriations made in previous years, but never paid because of insufficient revenue.

If the legislature lapses the $11,000,000 appropriations referred to the Department revenues for the next two years will be $31,000,000 less than the requirements.

It has been suggested the legislature drop from the General Appropriation bill $1,000,000 allotted the State Highway Department for the next two years for General Salary and Expenses; and if this is done, the revenues will be $32,000,000 less than the requirements.

"It will be unfortunate if the legislature fails to pass the State Highway Department," said Commissioner Wright today. "The State is just beginning to find daylight through the bad roads tunnel. But the Commonwealth must not lessen its road-building activities until the State has all the durable highways it requires. This is not a summer's job—it will mean strenuous activity for years to come. A thousand miles of highway on the Primary System are totally unimproved. There are many miles of so-called improved roads on that system which are of such type their maintenance under modern traffic is a tremendous expense. This mileage must be replaced by the Department with modern roads. Pennsylvania has been pointing to its road building activities. It can not afford to lose a place in the van of progressive American states."

Appropriations made by the 1917, 1919 and 1921 legislatures, and never paid to the Department because of insufficient revenue in the State Treasury, totaled as follows:

State Highway Construction, $3,700,000; State-aid Highway Construction, $6,850,000; State-aid Maintenance and Repairs, $240,000; Borough-aid Maintenance and Repairs, $285,000. This is a total of $10,875,000.

Pinchot Approves State Control Over All County Road Building Projects

Harrisburg, June 4.—Governor Pinchot vetoed the bill of Senator Sones, yesterday, which would have granted sole jurisdiction over the construction and maintenance of county roads where only county funds are expended to county commissioners without first obtaining approval of the state highway department.

The Governor pointed out that the present plan provides a "uniform system of road improvement and a joint check of all plans and specifications, bids, contracts and inspections of all improvements in which county money is used," and declared that "all of these mutual advantages would be eliminated on all roads other than state and state aid if this bill were approved."

"The system under the present acts does not deprive the counties of exercising a discretion in these matters," the Governor said, "but provides a dual check whereby both state and county must be satisfied before work is accepted and money paid."

Lightning Kills Bells Landing Man

LEGISLATURE WILL HAVE HANDS FULL DURING THE WEEK

Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.—After an eleven day recess over Memorial Day the legislators returned here today determined to clear up in the next two months the mountain of work which has accumulated during the last five months.

Aside from the Governors' dry bill other important issues to come before this legislature remains today to be settled between now and the end of the session.

The House must decide upon a tax program and pass upon the Pinchot code, while the Senate has before it the general appropriations bill with the necessity of voting upon the $250,000 item for law enforcement.

The dry question returned to the center of the arena today to worry the members during the closing days of the session. Although the Governor's dry bill was long since enacted three supplemental bills, licensing breweries and wholesale liquor, and regulation of traffic in alcohol remained on the calendar for decision.

It was known that Pinchot would not feel his enforcement legislation in any way complete if these bills were not enacted into the law to support his main code.

Isaiah Jury And Good Wife Celebrate Their Fiftieth Anniversary

The brothers and sisters, children grandchildren and great grandchildren of Isaiah Jury and Mary Shaw Jury, gathered at the Jury home on the bluff overlooking the Susquehanna River in Girard Township on Saturday June 2 where the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of this respected couple was fittingly celebrated. Within a few years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Jury purchased the place and erected the home where they now live, and where they reared their family.

Isaiah Jury is the oldest of a family of seven sons and six daughters and represents one of the very oldest families in the United States. His father served in the Civil War, his grandfather in the war of 1848 and several Indian campaigns, his great grandfather in the war of 1812, and his great-great grandfather in the Revolutionary War, while, as a matter of course, numerous members of this old family participated in the late World War. Of Holland Dutch ancestry, the forefathers of this widely diffused family, came to America in the early days of the settlement by the Holland Dutch of the territory about the Hudson and of New Amsterdam, now New York City.

Enloe Bell, 28, Son of Green Bell, Struck By Bolt Saturday Evening During Fierce Storm.

WAS INSIDE HOUSE

Enloe H. Bell, twin son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bell, of Bell's Landing, was struck by lightning and instantly killed at his home in Bell's Landing, about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon last.

Mr. Bell and his wife had arranged to go out in their car Saturday evening and he was in the pantry helping Mrs. Bell wash the supper dishes when the severe electrical storm, which passed over that section broke. A bolt of lightning struck a telephone pole near the house and following the line to where the electric wire was attached, jumped onto the light wire and made its way into the house. Mr. Bell was standing directly underneath the light globe in the pantry and received the full force of the lightning. Mrs. Bell, who was standing close beside her husband, was also knocked down and badly stunned, while one arm was severely burned. She quickly regained consciousness and running to a neighbor's house gave the alarm and secured assistance.

Mr. Bell's body was at once taken out onto the front porch and every effort made to revive him, but it was of no avail, as it was apparent from the condition of the body that death had been instantaneous.

Enloe Bell, who was aged 28 years, 7 months and 8 days, was a miner by occupation and an industrious, upright young man, whose untimely death will be sorely mourned.

He leaves a widow and one child. His parents and the following brothers and sisters also survive him: Percy, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Perry, of Erie, Pa.; Fred, of Akron, Ohio; Wace, of Mahaffey; Ord, of Bell's Landing; Earl, Harry and Eva, at home.

The funeral will be held from the church at Bell's Landing Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. Interment at Lumber City.

State Council O. U. A. M. Convenes Here June 12; 100 Delegates Coming

The State Council of the Order United American Men will meet in Clearfield on Tuesday, June 12th, and continue in session for three days. This is one of the pioneer patriotic organizations in Pennsylvania and its membership is made up of some of the most substantial citizens of the State and Clearfield people should extend the State officers, delegates and the visitors who will come with them a genuine welcome to our town.

This is not the first visit to Clearfield of the State Council O. U. A. M. and as the State officers and delegates appreciated the treatment given them on their previous visit enough to want to come back we should all see that they have every reason to leave our town after this session with equally as pleasant recollection of Clearfield.

Howard Holstein, President of the State Fireman's Association and well known to many Clearfielders, is State Secretary of the O. U. A. M. and will be in Clearfield during the entire session.

There will be approximately 100 delegates and a considerable number of visitors at the convention.

ACUTE PTOMAIN POISONING SEIZES WEDDING GUESTS

New York, N. Y., June 2.—Thirty-two guests at a wedding party including the bride and groom, were stricken with ptomaine poisoning. Physicians believe all will recover.

The guests at the wedding party of Conrad Kissel, aged twenty-four, were making merry when suddenly the laughter began dying out and groans and wails replaced it. Alarms were sent to hospitals and shortly afterward ambulances were clanging at the door and backing in among the decorated automobiles.

Physicians said the illness was caused by some of the food eaten during the feasting but which variety was responsible could not be determined.

New York, N. Y., June 4.—Forty-four persons were killed and one hundred twenty-seven injured in week-end automobile accidents in thirty-nine cities throughout the country. Eight were killed in Chicago, six in New York and four in Hagerstown, Md.

RUE WILL RUE THE DAY HE FLIVVERED INTO THIS COUNTY

Edward Rue, Jr., a Cambria county resident, will, for several days at least, rue the day when he came sky-larking in his Henry into the West-over country. Rue had a couple of friends with him in the Ford and they also were accompanied by a pint of moonshine which had been severely dealt with during the journey. One or two of the party showed evidence of their battle with the bottle and when County Detective Snyder happened along and "lamped" the party things began to happen.

The Ford was halted and Rue placed under arrest. He appeared before Judge Bell this morning on a plea of guilty to a charge of violating the liquor law and was sentenced to pay $100 fine and costs and serve 30 days in jail. Provided, however, that upon payment of the fine costs, Rue may make application for parole from further jail sentence or June 9th.

Women Deplore Way Dr. Finegan Is Treated; Say Effect Is Demoralizing

Deploping the treatment accorded Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, whose acceptance or declination of temporary reappointment as state superintendent of public instruction still hung in the balance yesterday, the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters expressed regret at the possibility of it having a deleterious effect on the state legislature.

The league issued a statement yesterday in which was included the expression that "it would be regrettable if the legislature should feel any lack of interest in providing necessary state funds for public education, owing to any impression they might receive that the school legislation of 1921, as amended by the legislature of 1923, was not to be enforced and that money would not be required to maintain the standards already set."

The statement characterized the present status of the head of the state educational system and author of the school program now being followed in this state as, among other things, "demoralizing to the school system," and as "unfortunately tending, consciously or unconsciously, to undermine the confidence of the people of Pennsylvania in the school program which has raised the state from the rank of 21 among the states of the Union to a place close to the top."

"The indecisiveness as suggested by the offer of a temporary appointment to Doctor Finegan," says the statement, "is most unexpected. Analyzing the cause of the Governor's indecision, the statement says that, in the case, 'one of two things must be true. Either Doctor Finegan is unfit or he is fit for the job. If he is unfit' (Continued On Page Three)

JUDGE CORBET HAS A HABIT OF SAYING "SIX MONTHS" TO THE BOOTLEGGERS

At a special session of the court of quarter sessions held Saturday in Brookville Judge Charles Corbet handed out some salty sentences. The cases were those in which the defendants entered pleas of guilty and thus saved themselves from trial at the regular session of criminal court. Most of the sentences were for liquor and automobile law violations.

Max Paluggapi, of Sykesville, charged with violation of the liquor laws, was fined $500, costs of prosecution and sentenced to serve six months in the Allegheny workhouse.

Guy Kunselman, of Brookville, charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to serve six months in the Allegheny workhouse.

Tony Vitello, of Brookwayville, charged with transporting and possessing liquor, was fined $250, costs of prosecution and sentenced to serve three months in the Allegheny workhouse.

Charles Mable, charged with the same offense, was fined $100 and costs.

W. J. McIntyre, of Reynoldsville, charged with transporting and possessing liquor, was fined $500 and costs of prosecution.

W. CLARK MILLER NAMED UMPIRE BY COAL OPERATORS

Altoona, June 4.—At a meeting of the board of the Central Pennsylvania Coal Producers' association and the Association of Bituminous Coal Operators, held Saturday afternoon in the Lincoln Trust building, W. Clark Miller, a prominent Clearfield attorney, was chosen permanent umpire to adjust differences between operators and the United Mine Workers of America in the district that may arise in connection with the scale agreement.

Mr. Miller succeeds the late ex-Judge Allison O. Smith, also of Clearfield. Mr. Miller is not identified in any way with the coal industry.

The final draft of the coal operators' brief, setting forth the facts of the industry from their standpoint to be presented to the United States fact-finding commission, was approved and it will be sent to the commission headed by John Hays Hammond within the next few days.

OUTLOOK HOPEFUL

Clearfield citizens today, seeing their post office troubles to the highest court in the state—to the United States Senators. Senators Pepper and Reed arrived in Clearfield yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock from Glen Campbell where they had been the guests of Senator and Mrs. Joseph O. Clark. Mrs. Pepper, Mrs. Reed and Charles P. Swapp, Secretary to Senator Pepper made up the party.

All during the evening the two senators were greeted by their constituents at the Dimmeling Hotel where they stopped after having been entertained at dinner, the guests of Public Service Commissioner John W. Reed, and visitors found their new senators to be the most democratic of men, willing and eager to listen to the needs of the community.

The party appeared bright and early this morning after a refreshing night of sleep in the mountain air of the valley of the Susquehanna and were kept busy, up to nine o'clock shaking hands with their many admirers who visited the hotel. At that hour the conference with, eager, anxious business men of Clearfield was scheduled and the Dimmeling ball room was comfortably filled with eager, anxious business men of the community to the number of over one hundred who turned out to find weight and influence to the presentation of Clearfield's greatest problem by the selected spokesman, Hon. Harry A. Boulton presiding, stating in a few well selected remarks the purpose of the meeting, reviewed briefly the trials and tribulations of the citizens of this city during the last ten years in the matter of post office service and welcomed the senators to the city. He then called on W. Clark Shillingford, spokesman selected by the two clubs to present the formal complaint on the postal service. Mr. Shillingford drew from his own experience at considerable length in outlining the nature of the inefficient service and cited many cases which had been brought to his attention. He gave the senators a word picture of the city, its industries, its business and said it was a compliment to the business interests of this city that they could continue to grow and prosper under the handicaps of the present postal service. He voiced the feeling of everyone present when he said he regretted that the meeting with the senators could not be one of a purely social nature but trusted that on their next visit there would be no complaint to make.

A. D. Bigler, chosen by the clubs to diagnose the ills of the Clearfield post office and present the complaint subject to the approval of the Pepper-Reed-New clinic, then took the floor and gave the senators a review of the postal situation here in which they listened with rapt attention. Mr. Bigler first made it plain that the people are not now interested in a federal building or additional equipment to any great extent except as to typewriters, adding machines and such other necessary equipment as adds to clerk efficiency, but that the difficulty is in an inadequate personnel, there being only eight clerks and five carriers to do what other offices doing only from fifty to sixty per cent as much business have from ten to twelve clerks to do. Neither speaker had any criticism to make of the post masters, past or present, nor of (Continued On Page Four)

SHRINERS, FRIGHTENED AT CROWD EXPECTED IN WASHINGTON, DECIDE IN FAVOR OF STAYING AT HOME

Washington, D. C. June 4.—With a small number of visitors in town, Shriners week got under way here today with a varied program of pageants, band concerts and other events as scheduled to keep this city in carnival mood until Friday.

St Louis Has Good Idea

Too enthusiastic advertising and boasting was held responsible for the failure of thousands of expected Shriners and their families to arrive. They were frightened away by reports of the large number expected to come and probable lack of sufficient accommodation. This was indicated when the St. Louis Temple sent word its members would remain at home, using the money the trip would cost to build a hospital. They said they understood there was no room here anyway.

The merchants and hotel keepers were greatly disappointed over failure of the 300,000 expected to arrive. Only about 20,000 came in the special trains and automobiles. Today's program began with a pilgrimage to Mt. Vernon by Imperial Potentate McCandless and his Divan. McCandless put a wreath upon the tomb of Washington.

MINNIE HENKE TODAY

Calvin Gray comes to Dallas and visits the most expensive hotel suite in the city. He is the steady of Colonel H. K. Nelson, son of H. K. Nelson, banker. Gray tells in love to Nelson, who suggests that he also purchase land for him. Gray, friend of Gray, takes Nelson and Algonquin, the daughter, to the mountains. Gray visits them there. A message comes saying that Bud Briskow, the son, has run away from school and Gray goes to follow him and bring him home. Gray returns to Dallas to see Barbara Parker.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

During the early dusk Gray returned to the house, only to find even the greasy carter gone. By this time he was decidedly uncomfortable, and, to add to his discomfort, he conceived the notion that he was being followed. On second thought he dismissed this idea, nevertheless he took a rapidabout course back toward the main street.

Before long Gray found himself in a quiet, deserted street, back from the main street with a stack of silver dollars which he carried carefully under the numbers of a roulette table. Here he was much like the old game. This was a good way in which to hide an hour.

Absorbed in his own thoughts, Gray paid little heed to those about him, until a large hand poked up one of his legs. Then he raised his eyes. The hand was attached to a muscular arm, which in turn was attached to a bulky stranger of unpleasant mien. Gray voiced a good-natured protest, but the fellow seemed to be determined to acknowledge his mistake. Noting that the man was flushed, Gray struggled and allowed the incident to pass. This being wholly from across Red River was of a quality to scatter a person's eyelight.

For some time the game continued before Gray won again, and the dealer deposited thirty-five silver dollars before him. Again that awkward hand reached forth, but this time Gray seized it by the wrist. With a wrench the man undertook to free his hand; he uttered a choking cry. The next instant he was treated to a surprise, for Gray jerked him forward and simultaneously his empty palm struck the fellow's forehead. A resounding smack. Again he uttered the familiar cry, this time from the other side. When he finally regained the air, he stood with his head back, his eyes closed, his hands on his forehead, and he blinked and he blinked. A weak moment before he could make his way to the door, he was seized by the arm and thrust against the wall. When he succeeded in getting away, he was staring at him with a menacing, threatening side.

The drunken man hesitated, he cast a slow glance around the room, then muttering, "I'm not a man," he turned and made for the door. He was followed by a burst of derisive laughter that grew louder as he went. Gray was in a better mood now than he had been for some time. He was in a better mood now than he had been for some time. He was in a better mood now than he had been for some time.

CHAPTER XIX
A Fall, Bad Man
NEWTON'S eating places were not anything at all, but a meal could be endured with less discomfort by night than by day, for each man's seat of the day was at the tables. The restaurant was entered with about what he had expected; along one side ran a quick-on counter at which were seated several customers, across from it was an ooloth-covered table, perfectly bare except for a revolving centerpiece—one of those silver-plated whirling things fitted with a glass salt-and-pepper shaker, a toothpick holder, an unpleasant oil bottle, and a cruet intended for vinegar. Here, facing an elderly man in a wide gray felt hat, Gray seated himself.

When a departing customer left the door open, the elderly diner grumbled bitterly at the draught and draped his overcoat over his bent shoulders. Most of the counter customers had drifted out when, without warning, the screen door banged loudly open and Gray looked up from his plate to see his recent acquaintance, he lurched directly up to the table and stared across at Gray.

"Slapped my face, didn't you?" he cried, after a menacing moment.

"I did, indeed," the speaker nodded, pleasantly.

"You ain't going to slap it again, are you?"

"What makes you think I won't?"

"Hands off, stranger! I won't have you buttin' in."

Gray became aware as he spoke that his elderly neighbor had raised to the intruder a countenance stamped with a peculiar expression of incredulity, almost of anger, at the interruption.

That which occurred next came unexpectedly. The stranger whipped out from under his coat a revolver, at the same time voicing a profane answer to the challenge.

As Calvin Gray rose to his feet it was with a flash of mingled anger and indignation. This quarrel was so utterly senseless, it served so little purpose.

"My friend," he cried, sharply, "if you don't put up that gun, one of us will go to a hospital."

By way of rousing his savagery, the fellow uttered a bellow, then, like a warrior, aiming his shield at the man before the charge, he swung his heavy weapon, smashing at one blow that silver-plated merry-go-round with its cluster of bottles.

A shower of toothpicks, fragments of glass, a spatter of oil and vinegar covered the old man in the end chair, and he rose with a cry that drew a swift glance from the disappointed.

Gray was upon the point of launching himself over the table when he witnessed a peculiar transformation in his assailant. The man's expression altered with almost comical suddenness, he lowered his weapon and took a backward step.

Gray, too, had cause for astonishment, for the elderly man was moving slowly toward the disturber, his overcoat, meanwhile, hanging loosely from his left shoulder, like a mantle.

That he had been recognized was plain, for the armed man cried, agitatedly: "Look out, Tom! I don't want any truck with you."

The deliberate advance continued: "In a harsh voice Tom answered: 'I don't allow anybody to interfere with me when I'm eating!' For every step he shuffled forward the man, before him fell back a corresponding distance.

Again the newcomer rasped out a warning, and Gray, too, added his voice, saying: "Leave him to me, old man. This is my quarrel." As he spoke he moved around the end of the table, but the mantled figure halted him with an imperious jerk of the head. Without in the slightest diverting his steady gaze, Tom snapped:

"He is off, stranger! I won't have you buttin' in, either. I don't allow anybody to interfere with me when I'm eating."

Brief as had been the whole episode, already passersby had halted, staring faces were glued to the front windows of the cafe. Well they might stare at those two tense figures, one advancing, the other retreating, as if to the measures of some slow dance.

But the tempo changed abruptly. The desperado's back brought up against the swinging kitchen door; it gave to his weight and decision was born of that instant. With a cry he flung himself backward, the spring door snapped to and swallowed him up with the speed of a camera shutter; then followed the sound of his heavy rushing footsteps.

"Idiot!" exclaimed the old man. "I had his buttons counted! With the words he let fall his overcoat, and there, beneath it, Gray beheld what he had more than half suspected, what indeed was ample cause for the quavering stranger's apprehension. Hidden close to the owner's body was what in the intelligent parlance of the west is known as a "dog leg." The weapon, frayed and worn, of heavy caliber, was full cocked under the old man's thumb; the hand holding it was as steady as the blazing eyes above.

The street door burst open, a noisy crowd poured into the room, a volley of excited questions was raised. Amid the confusion Gray heard his own name shouted, and found himself surrounded by two agitated friends, Malow and Stoner.

Malow dragged him toward the door.

"Gee, Governor! You gave us a run. We've been coming since noon."

"It was only by the grace of God," Stoner declared, "that we heard you were out here and why you'd come. We managed to get a phone call through to Jackson, but it was—"

"Jackson didn't get to you, did he?" Malow inquired, anxiously.

"Get to me? No. Nor I to him." Gray spoke impatiently. "What is this all about?"

"Simply this, Governor: Jackson's well is a set-up! For Nelson! We nearly dropped dead when we found out that Parker kid had laid you against it. Why didn't you tell us—?"

"What are you saying? I don't—"

"The well's phony. Dry as a prairie!"

"In what way? I saw the oil—"

"I'll say you did," Malow chuckled. "Live oil, too; right out of old Mamie's Earls. Cheap lease at seventy-five thousand, eh? It's like this: the pipe line of the Atlantic runs across Jackson's lease, and one dark and stormy night he tapped it. It wasn't a hard thing to do; just took a little care and some digging. Now he runs the oil in, pumps it out and sells it back to them. He's a regular subsidiary of the great and only Atlantic Petroleum Company. It can't last long, of course, but—oh, what a well to hand Nelson. What a laugh it would have been!"

Gray clamped a heavy hand upon the speaker's shoulder; harshly he inquired, "Do you mean to say that Miss Parker deliberately—"

"She don't know anything about it."

"You said she 'laid me' against it."

"No, no! I merely tipped her to it because she's one of Nelson's brokers."

"I told you my fight with Nelson was to be fair and square."

NEEDS OF LOCAL POSTOFFICE

the over-worked men and women who are, and have been, doing their best under difficulties to take care of our mail. Mr. Bigler's description of our parcel post delivery outfit consisting of a one horse wagon and an old grey horse which he said was about all in, rather upset the provincial senatorial dignity. All joined in the laugh. Describing graphically and tersely the ills of the post office he said that no less than two additional clerks and one additional carrier would meet the need of the Clearfield office and recommended a motor truck for the handling of the mail to and from the station and for the delivery of parcel post and took occasion to assure his auditors that the present postmaster was a business man whose requests were made on a basis of actual requirements and that any "chiselling" of his requisition would result in continued inefficiency. Two clerks and an additional carrier are therefore the actual requirements.

It was not expected that the Senators would make any lengthy speeches or addresses at the conclusion of the presentation as all were aware that their itinerary called for rapid movement today, but so impressed were both of them with the arguments presented that they availed themselves of the opportunity to speak to the assemblage. Mr. Reed, the junior Senator, spoke first and his remarks bore the earmarks of earnest sincerity. Divested of the remarks concerning the purpose of the visit, which was for the purpose of getting first hand information as to how they could best serve their constituency, Mr. Reed's reply was full of promise and hope. A look at the junior Senator and one is convinced that he is a "go-getter" and a fighter and his remarks indicated that he is going to "go get" if he has to "fight" for Clearfield. He outlined painstakingly the course that he would pursue to bring the conditions here to the proper person in an emphatic manner. Senator Reed is already familiar with the conditions as he has in his possession copies of all the correspondence which has passed between Congressman Swoope and the Post Office Department on the matter. However, as he pointed out, so far it has been by correspondence alone, and he admitted that correspondence was not unduly impressive nor productive. He now intends to make the Clearfield post office problem a personal one and will personally make the tour of the different officials who must be convinced that a need exists here for additional clerks and carriers. Senator Reed said he was convinced that there must be personal work for if there was anything in letter writing the efforts of Congressman Swoope would have counted before this, for the latter gentleman had flooded the department with letters.

Senator Pepper followed Mr. Reed and gave assurance of his support if needed to assist Senator Reed, this post office being in the latter's jurisdiction. Both gentlemen work together and have given their word that as a court of last resort both will go personally to Postmaster General New to get results.

Before leaving Senator Reed announced that Postmaster Roseberry would leave for Washington this evening and the machinery has been put in motion whereby Mr. Roseberry will be brought into conference with Post Office Department officials on Wednesday of this week. So the job has been started and all present are confident that it is in good hands. Both Senators received thunderous ovations at the conclusion of their remarks and many laudatory expressions were heard from the citizens concerning the two Senators from Pennsylvania. Both are men of the highest type of citizenship, integrity and honor; men who can look other men straight in the eye, and by their accomplishments have shown themselves to be men of action.

FINE MUSIC A FEATURE OF WEST SIDE MEN'S BANQUET

The fellow who reported the Friday evening meeting of the West Side church banquet wrote on both sides of his paper, and since that is contrary to newspaper practice The Progress overlooked a couple of important items as follows:

Miss Mitchell was called upon for a violin solo and responded to a hearty applause with a second selection.

Rev. Armstrong gave a few remarks relative to the work at hand and urged the men to give earnest support. Mrs. Fred L. Ward and Mr. Meredith sang a very pretty selection and sang a second selection after receiving long applause. Miss Dorothy Armstrong was the accompanist.

LEWIS SCHEME FOR GETTING MONEY

The State Highway Commission today said the amount of money necessary annually for the Department's proposed program is $30,830,000.

The estimated annual revenue for the next two years, he said, is $28,787,599 or $22,775,000 for the two years, as compared with requirements of $73,660,000 for the next two years.

"We are talking in large figures," said the Highway Commissioner, "but these figures are not nearly so large as the proposition which confronts us."

The Department's estimated revenues for the next two years are as follows:

One half of old appropriations to be used first year	$ 5,437,500
State Bond Road Fund (1-2 of $900,000)	450,000
Motor License Fees	16,376,000
Increase (available only if increases in House Bill No. 1179 are authorized by Legislature)	1,125,000
Federal Aid, (available only if met approximately 2 to 1)	2,500,000
Appropriation, Session of 1923 (available only if $1,000,000 appropriation is favorably acted upon)	500,000

Total Estimated Revenues $26,387,500

The Department's program, if construction is to be continued and the roads properly maintained, include the following items for each year:

Women Deplore Way Dr. Finegan Has Been Treated

Why offer him a temporary appointment, Governor Pinchot, certainly would not put an untrained man into office. The woman cannot be that Doctor Finegan's wife."

The Woman's League statement holds that the Governor should be relieved of his office for the four-year term. It is the only alternative the Governor has other than permanently relieving him of the office.

"Temporary appointment" offered Superintendent of Public Instruction Thomas Finegan by Governor Pinchot has become today a question involving the legislature itself in political interest.

Finegan said today he would give his answer to Pinchot tomorrow. The Governor stated he had not in any way changed his position in spite of the amount of criticism his offer had stirred up.

School authorities from various sections of the state were gathered here today to discuss the situation. Among others, the Advisory Education Committee, created by the Pinchot Citizens Committee and the Legislative Committee of the State Association of School Superintendents assembled here to consider the situation created by the possible ending of the Finegan regime.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

We have found out the past few days that he who mixeth deviled crabs with strawberries and cream not only maketh trouble and great pain for himself, but realizes that such dampness persisted in will make his days short in the land. 'Tis a verily; it is even so."

We have often heard of the year 1816, which all weather sharks assert without fear of contradiction was the year without a summer. We have run across the following record of the weather for that summer and present it herewith that you may judge for yourself how cold it was—

April.
The medium temperature of this month was 47. It commenced mild, but did not maintain its credit; as Jack Frost came along mounted upon a cold, boisterous northwester, and made everything tremble and shiver before him. The blustering snow squalls which followed, would have been more suitable for January than April. After the wind lulled, ice formed on several nights, half an inch thick, which destroyed all the buds, and almost every green thing.

May.
The medium temperature of this month was 57, and she was really a frosty jade. Her frowns were many and her smiles few. Northerly winds, with cold frosty nights prevailed until every green thing was killed or withered. A melancholy hue appeared to seal the fate of all vegetable life. Buds and small fruits froze upon the trees. On some mornings there was ice from a quarter to half an inch thick, in exposed situation. Corn was replanted two or three times, and very little ever came to perfection. Westerly and southwest winds prevailed but seven days during the whole month. There were two northeast rainstorms.

June.
The medium temperature of this month was only 64, and it was the coldest month of June we ever remember; there were not only severe frosts on several mornings, but one morning there was said to be ice. Every green herb was killed and vegetables of every description very much injured. All kinds of fruit had been previously destroyed, as not a month had passed without producing ice. From six to ten inches of snow fell in various parts of Vermont; three inches in the interior of New York, and several inches in the interior of New Hampshire and Maine.

July.
The medium or average temperature of this month was only 68, and it was a month of melancholy forebodings, as during every previous month since the year commenced there were not only heavy frosts, but ice, so that very few vegetables came to perfection. It seemed as though the sun had lost its warm and cheering influences. One frosty night was succeeded by another, and thin ice formed in many exposed situations in the country. On the morning of the fifth there was ice as thick as window glass in Pennsylvania, New York and through New England. Indian corn was chilled and withered, and the grass was so much chilled and withered by repeated frosts, that grazing cattle would scarcely eat it. Northerly winds prevailed a great part of the month, and when the wind changed to the west, and produced a pleasant day, it was a subject of consternation by all. Very little rain fell during the month.

August.
The medium temperature for this month was only 66 and such a cheerless, desponding, melancholy summer month the oldest inhabitant never, perhaps, experienced. This poor month entered upon its duties so perfectly chilled as to be unable to raise one warm foggy morning or cheerful sunny day. It commenced with a cold northeast rainstorm, and when it cleared the atmosphere was so chilled as to produce ice in many places half an inch thick. It froze the Indian corn, which was in the milk, so hard that it rotted up on the stock, and farmers mowed it down and dried it for cattle fodder. Every green thing was destroyed not only in this country but in Europe. Newspapers received from England said: "It will ever be remembered by the present generation, that the year 1816 was a year in which there was no summer." Indian corn, raised in Pennsylvania in 1816 sold for seed to plant in the spring of 1817 for $4 a bushel in many places.

September.
More than two weeks of the mildest and pleasantest weather there had been during the whole season. The twenty-third brought a cold northeast wind and for several successive nights water froze a quarter of an inch thick in shallow ponds October.

On several mornings ice was a quarter of an inch thick. There was, however, one week of very mild and pleasant weather.

Isaiah Jury and Good Wife Celebrate

Shaws who lived fifty years ago in the vicinity of Wallacetown. In her young womanhood she was one of the prominent and most talented of Clearfield County's school teachers.

The passage of the years has dealt kindly with this couple who have spent half a century by each other's side. Keen of mind and intellect they are interesting to listen to. Their tales of the early trials and hardships is heating out a home in the wild country along the river in the early days are fascinating. Isaiah points with graphic description to the spots where he had to wrest the ownership of his land from the possession of copperheads and rattlers in such numbers that they had made previous settlement and clearance of this particular farm an impossibility. Likewise he turns to tales of the days when bands of wolves rushed along the tops of the mountains and down their sides to the banks of the rivers, their howls making the long nights of winter hideous and their presence life dangerous. Also his interesting anecdotes of the days of lumber and rafting and the fishing when the Susquehanna was alive with the finest specimens of the finny tribe, held one spell bound.

Mr. and Mrs. Jury have had four children, to whom have been born fifteen grand children and two great grandchildren.

Among the more than a hundred persons who enjoyed the wonderful dinner in honor of these people were the following persons and their families: Simon Jury, Wash Jury, Curt Jury, William Jury, J. Edward Jury, all brothers; J. G. Mames and family, John Weimer and family; A. L. Murray and wife; Kyler Murray; John Palmer and family; Jno. M. Bain, wife and daughter; Carlton Cramer, Mrs. Elizabeth Livergood (a daughter), Mrs. D. A. Mames Herman Palmer and family; E. B. McGonigal and family; Arthur Jury and family; Paul Smith and family, and numerous other friends, neighbors and relatives.

Twenty-six years ago Isaiah Jury with his brothers and sisters celebrated the golden wedding anniversary of their parents, who were permitted to enjoy life together for sixty years.

Following the dinner photographs were made of the hosts and of their guests, music was furnished by the "Jury Drum Corps" and brief and appropriate remarks were made by J. G. Mames, A. L. Murray and Jno. M. Bain. Mr. Mames presented some tokens of the regards of guests to Mr. and Mrs. Jury in his usual excellent manner, after which the guests departed with sincere wishes for a much longer enjoyment of life to those they had gathered to honor.

LANCASTER FIRE CHIEF'S AUTO "TAGGED" BY HYDRANT

Lancaster, Pa., June 2.—Fire Chief Keyel was "tagged" today when he parked his brilliant red automobile in front of a fireplug downtown. The officer waited until the chief appeared and handed him the card instructing Keyel to call at the police station. The ensuing argument took place.

"That's an official car and it can be parked anywhere," said the fire chief. "It has four tires, an engine and a lot of nice paint, and it looks like any other car to me," said the cop. "Tell it to the chief."

"The fire chief has 24 hours in which to 'tell it to the police chief.'"

Entered in Post Office at Clearfield, Pa., as second class mail matter.

Will the post office of Clearfield be given more help with which to handle the great increase in the business? That is the question that is being asked today.

Some may think that it is within the province of the two U. S. Senators to "so order" and the thing will be done. But it is not so simple. Economy is the golden rule of the Harding administration. It is the keynote of the Pennsylvania State government, although this has nothing to do with the post office. It is, however, the style nowadays in government. Executives all over the nation are frowning on additional expenditures. They must be shown and shown conclusively that a need exists before additional obligations are incurred. It is gratifying that this is so. No longer is the pork barrel left off or the plum tree bearing.

Once there is proof that a necessity exists it ceases to be economy to ignore the call for that necessity. Such a condition we believe, "pertains as to the Clearfield post office. Senators Reed and Pepper, who were the guests of the business men here, are convinced. They were given the proof and have affirmed the general opinion.

It is their privilege and duty to make known our plight to the Post Office Department, and it is their province to show the Post Office Department that service comes before economy. They will do by recourse to personal contact with the officials of the Post Office Department. Although young in the United States Senate, by sheer ability they occupy places of unusual weight and influence and if their combined efforts do not bring results, Clearfield must resign itself to the inevitable and suffer forever. Such is our confidence in the ability of Messrs. Pepper and Reed. Both gentlemen listened intently and earnestly to the plea for a paltry three additional men in our post office as they would to a weighty tariff, immigration or foreign policy debate. Rather than delegate the carrying through of our petition to a subordinate, as they could have done and many a Senator would have done, they took it upon their own shoulders to see if justice could be done. Senator Reed remarked, "You have given us some job, but you have shown us a reason for the assignment and you have a right to demand. We are your hired men and we are anxious to perform the duties imposed upon us. It has been a real pleasure to visit here just for the reason that you have shown confidence enough in us to bring your difficulties to us for solution. That is the purpose of our visit. We want to know what we can do." Neither enlivened the course he would follow.

Now, when can we expect results, if any? We have been patient for many years. Our patience is at an end, but we can be reasonable. We must give the Senators time; not a year, not six months, not three months, but something ought to happen within six weeks at the outside and possibly less than that.

Clearfield business men, after this informal meeting with our representative in the highest legislative branch of our government, have an all abiding confidence in their ability to produce results. Both men are of the type that command respect, attention and following. Their remarks rang true and sincere and they gave every indication of a sympathetic understanding of the problem confronting the citizens of Clearfield.

Interest naturally centered in the Junior Senator, David A. Reed. We know and know of George Wharton Pepper, big hearted, whole hearted Pepper, friend of Roosevelt, military churchman, patriot. It was good to meet him face to face. Now we are convinced that he has a team mate who matches perfectly. About Reed there is a stamp of earnestness and sincerity that compels admiration and respect.

Pennsylvania could be no more ably represented in that august body, the United States Senate. More power to their elbows.

UNIONISM HAS NON-UNION MINE (From the Harrisburg Patriot.)

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers some time ago purchased a coal mine in West Virginia. From that day to this it has been operated on a non-union basis. The miners' union officials are protesting. The Brotherhood officials show no sign of surrender. The mine will be operated as it has been, they intimate.

This is a rather striking illustration of what happens when unionism undertakes the responsibility of an employer. As the Brotherhood sees it, there is no hostility to unionism. The union miner is employed side by side with the non-union miner. Neither is employed to the exclusion of the other.

The Brotherhood in its policy of not discriminating on the question of unionism or non-unionism, is adhering to a fundamental principle in American life that a man may work where he pleases and that no man shall prevent him from working if he chooses to do so. It will be interesting to observe how this novel experiment results.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that the Government need not prove the alcoholic content of whisky or whether it was fit for beverage purposes, in cases where indictment charge violation of dry laws in which the liquor is specified as whisky.

This ruling was contained in an opinion written by Judge Henry Wade Rogers, in which Judges Martin T. Manton and Julius M. Mayer concurred.

The opinion was rendered in affirming sentence imposed last November by Federal Judge Mack on seven bootleggers convicted of bringing 160 barrels of whisky from Canada into the United States, on the representation that it was in transit to Havana.

Disposing of the main contention of the plaintiffs that the Canadian whisky did not contain more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, Judge Rogers said:

"Under this statute (prohibition) it is our opinion that if an indictment alleges a violation of the act as respects 'whisky' it is not necessary for the Government to show that the whisky contained one-half per centum or more of alcohol by volume, or that the whisky was fit for beverage purposes. If it is shown that the acts were committed with respect to 'whisky' which acts the statute prohibited, the alcoholic content need not be proven. We think that the language of the act is not capable of any other construction."

Lloyd George Ready To Stage Political Comeback In England

Sweep of Events Shaping to Make Him Formal Leader of the Liberal Party

By J. W. T. MASON

(Written for the United Press)
New York, June 2 (United Press)—Lloyd George is coming back in British politics. Since his loss of the premiership, he has been in a position of isolation; but events are shaping to make him the formal leader of the Liberal Party, and thus put him in the running to be the head of the government again.

Ever since Herbert Asquith was forced to resign as Prime Minister and was succeeded by Lloyd George, in the midst of the war, the British Liberal Party has been split into two rival camps. The Asquithians have in their control all the political machinery of the party and Lloyd George, even during the time he was the head of the Coalition Ministry, was not leader of the Liberals. That post is still held officially by Asquith.

But, the power of Asquith has gone. His prestige has been overshadowed by Lloyd George's and he has been accused of being a bad loser and of being under the control of his wife, who is personally very bitter against Lloyd George.

Union Demanded

The only way the Liberal Party can recover its lost ground is by a union of the two dissenting wings. Lloyd George is working toward this goal; but Asquith is opposing any truce with the Georgians.

The Asquith followers explain that there is no necessity for any reconciliation. If Lloyd George and his associates wish to rejoin the Liberal Party, all they have to do is to enroll themselves in the organization and no more will be said.

This attitude is theoretically correct. When people leave a political party, that is the way they can come back. But the Lloyd George argument is that Lloyd George didn't leave the Liberals; they left him. Furthermore, Lloyd George's followers claim Lloyd George is too important a personage and has done too much for this country to be humiliated by being treated simply as a casual member of the Liberal Party's rank and file.

The true reason for the struggle is that Asquith fears any compromise with Lloyd George would mean Lloyd George's election to Asquith's present post as party leader. Therefore, every possible reason is advanced to explain why a reconciliation cannot be attempted, or why impossible conditions must be imposed. Having the party machinery under his control, Asquith for the moment has the upper hand.

May Force Union

But, the temperamental disputes of political leaders cannot long be endured by the subordinate and younger members, who consider they are being kept from office by the quarrels of their elders. There is a fast growing tendency among the members of the Liberal Party to take matters in their own hands and to call upon Asquith either to procure a victory or to consent to a formal reconciliation with the Lloyd George party.

By no possibility can the Liberals hope for a victory while the present rift continues. At the recent general election they ran third, and were forced to give way to the Labor Party as the official Opposition in the House of Commons. There can be no change in this position while Lloyd George and his men are not offered terms to come back. This fact is Lloyd George's principal argument and is winning the day for him. The spoils of office will be within the Liberals' reach under Lloyd George's leadership. That fact is bringing Lloyd George back.

Playground Activities Take On New Impetus As Weather Warms Up

The season for opening the Community Service playgrounds is approaching rapidly and brings forward for discussion some important matters. The grounds need a certain amount of work done on them either when first used last season or to make some improvements as the normal second year advance.

As these playgrounds are really wanted and appreciated by the fathers and mothers in the various contributing communities, it is expected that when the call for help comes there will be a very general response. A few hours' work by a number of men going at it systematically should be all that is necessary to put things in order. Those who have the need and success of the playgrounds on their minds are asked to particularly notice this and be ready to organize a working force on short notice.

ROSSITER YOUTH IS HONORED AT COLLEGE

At a recent meeting, the dean and faculty of the Dickinson law school elected Sebastian Pugliese, of Rossiter, an honor student.

This promising young man is a graduate of Indiana Normal, class of 1921. He entered Dickinson in the fall of 1921 and will graduate next June, after which event he will take examinations for admission to the bar.

Mine Foreman James McConville was in town this morning on his way back to his work at "White Mule," Indiana county, after spending Sunday at his home in Philipsburg.

HORSE SHOE NOTES

Community Service and the officers of the local Horseshoe Club are doing their best to push the organization of the state club which is still in the air. They understand that the incentive to join the Clearfield club will be much stronger when it can be part of a larger one. However, a large and thriving association here will carry much more weight so all who are interested in this sport are asked to enlist now members and help get things in shape for the season. Instead of an open tournament, free for all, the plan this year is to have a league composed of as many of smaller clubs who normally pitch together and playing the winners. The forming of these smaller clubs will be started this week and the leaders of the group in the various organizations are asked to be lining up their possible members. There may also be a sort of division between those who pitch the old style shoe simply for recreation and those who are in the game with the new style. The idea is that it will be more interesting for both.

BASEBALL NOTES

Everything set for the opening game, a record crowd for a home talent team is expected.

WEST SIDE METHODISTS "CARRY-ON"

With the walls of their old church building razed to make way for the handsome edifice to be erected in its stead, West Side Methodists held their services in the Agricultural building at the Driving Park, yesterday. This location will be maintained until the tabernacle, which is planned to house the congregation until the new church is completed, can be erected on the Martin street site provided for that purpose.

There was an attendance of 541 at the Sunday school session and despite the disorganization of departments due to the division of the school in groups that could be accommodated by new quarters, the exercises of the morning were soon going smoothly. Supt. H. L. Shaw and his staff of officers and teachers were on hand early to prepare the new quarters and by the end of the session the school was functioning almost as orderly as it has been accustomed to in its old home. By next Sunday all the classes will be definitely settled and the school can again resume "business as usual."

Church services are being held in the left wing of the Agricultural building. This has proved a most satisfactory meeting place, being especially welcome these warm days because of its beautiful location and its breezy, open-air comfort. Both regular services yesterday were especially well attended.

Charming at all times, especially delightful in the month of June.

As James Russell Lowell has beautifully phrased it: "And what is so rare as a day in June? Then, if ever, come perfect days"

A. G. Woodward is an ardent advocate of the building up of Curwensville, and is arranging to erect about a half dozen new homes which, when completed, will be for sale at a moderate price.

John M. Chase and son, of Clearfield, were Curwensville guests for a few hours on Saturday evening. In conversation with Milton McClure and several others, he made this bold and broad prediction: "At the rate Clearfield people are building homes toward Curwensville it will only be a matter of a few hundred years until these two towns will be connected up as one," and added that the Progress scribbler would live the years to see it accomplished. TRINITY CHURCH ITEMS

Yesterday's session of the Bible school opened with a stirring musical program, then came the missionary study and exercises under direction of Superintendent Henry B. Powell, Jr., followed by a filled-up study period on Jeremiah. Attendance 446, less by 57 than last year's Sunday; offering $77.45.

In both morning and evening congregations the men outnumbered the women. More comment was made on the exposition of Jude 3 and by most of the men in the church than has been heard on any discourse preached during the pastorate of Rev. Jacobs.

Messrs. George and Morella Cole, came over from Altoona on Wednesday for a short visit with Mrs. Martha Cole, on Anderson street. Mrs. Cole being their aunt.

In the evening the text, 1 Cor. 1:21 was very pointedly expounded.

At Mt. Zion, in the afternoon, Rev. Joseph E. Gearhart was assisted by Pastor Jacobs, who baptized two infants and administered the Lord's Supper to everyone in the school house except two persons. His sermon was based on the Lord's own question, "What think ye of Christ?"

Events for the week: Monday, Queen Esther Circle, 7:30; Wednesday mid-week congregational meeting, followed by official board; Thursday, 3 p. m., Ladies' Aid Society; to 7, fine lunch, 35c in charge of Mrs. Gearhart's group, F. Some things you should know about your heart

THE first thing a physician examines, when summoned, is the heart pulse. A normal heart will beat one hundred and three thousand times each day. You depend on it to beat the blood of your life. You realize the heart should not have to work constantly to throw off blood poisons. It is impurities which impede the heart beat. More red-cells mean cleaner, purer, richer blood. More heart-power, because all the nerves are fed by your blood. Means freedom from pimples, from blackheads, from boils, eczema and skin eruptions; from rheumatic impurities, from that tired, exhausted, run-down feeling. Red-cells are the most important thing in the world to each of us. S. S. S. will build them for you! S. S. S. has been known since 1826 as one of the greatest blood-builders, blood-cleansers and system strengtheners ever produced.

Mr. Arthur A. Smith, 509 S. Ada St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "After suffering with bad boils, I commenced using S. S. S. I wish to say that it came up to all expectations, and relieved me of boils. I wish to express my appreciation for what S. S. S. did for me."

ALL-STAR CAST IN "THE MAN WITHOUT A COUNTRY"

An all-star cast will be seen in the American Legion's film classic, "The Man Without a Country," when it opens tomorrow at the Driggs theater. The remarkable photoplay will be presented under the auspices of John Shade Post of the American Legion for the benefit of sick, disabled and needy ex-service men and for the promotion of "Americanism."

"The Man Without a Country," an eight reel picture, combines with the immortal story of this name, the romantic points in the nation's history from post-Revolutionary days to the beginning of the World War. It is not a war picture, rather a great love story of adventure and romance made pleasant with dashes of mystery. There is portrayed in the screen version, every character of love from the love of a man for a maid to the passionate love of country, said by philosophers to be the greatest of all. The picture is said to be too big too great, to attempt a complete description of it. Every dramatic critic who has seen the picture has been lavish in praising it. One of the New York reviewers said: "No word thus far spoken, no picture thus far shown contains so much inspiration for Americans."

The picture is being exhibited throughout the country under sponsorship of the American Legion. Every American is called upon to see it.

FOR THE YOUNG AMERICAN

There is no piece of literature that stands out so prominently in the quality of instilling Americanism and love of country in the modern youth as Nathan Hales "The Man Without a Country."

It was indeed a happy thought that possessed the American Legion when they decided to bring this story to Clearfield in film form.

It will be shown at the Driggs Theatre tomorrow. The public and parochial schools will be dismissed at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon in order that all the boys and girls who can muster up the necessary fifteen cents will be enabled to see the picture and thus relieve the evening crowd.

The school pupils matinee will be at 3:15 p. m. Regular hours during the evening. Revivify your patriotic impulses by seeing this film tomorrow evening.

JOINT-EASE
FOR BURNING FEET

Just because it is now known that painful, sore, aching swollen feet are caused by the many joints in the foot and Joint-Ease soaks right in and gets to the seat of the trouble—the cartilage and ligaments of the joints.

And to think that for generations we have been powdering and soaking our feet, thinking the trouble was only skin deep—ay old fashioned idea.

Well, better late than never—just stop the powdering and soaking—bathing and other foolishness for three days and just rub on Joint-Ease. And remember when stainless Joint-Ease goes in foot agony goes out—quick—60 cents a tube.

The thrill lies in our proficiency

What's Your Sorce?

Exercise for health? Of course we do. But down in our hearts we know that the thrill lies in our proficiency—in making the best score and in landing the biggest string.

What don't we do to give ourselves that thrill?

We pinch our pocket-books for clubs, tackle, gear, equipment—all in order to increase our proficiency. Yet, if we stop to think a minute, we know that in golf, tennis, fishing, hunting, motoring—any outdoor pastime—defective eyesight will spoil our form and take the edge off our enjoyment.

We sigh for Roosevelt's guns—when we should be thinking of his glasses.

Even if you already wear glasses, have your eyes examined. Many who need special lenses for outdoors aren't aware of it. Perhaps another prescription would improve your game immensely.

To judge your distances, put sting in your strokes, land the fish, bag the game—to get from outdoors the thrill that outdoors owes you—have your eyes examined without delay.

washday is over

Our man has called for the bundle of soiled clothes.

Shortly he will return it with everything fresh and bright and sweetly clean—the flat work and linen ironed, the underwear and woollens softly smooth and ready to use, everything that requires it starched, and only the dainty pieces that you like to care for yourself waiting to be dampened and ironed when you have time.

That's our Rough Dry service. No hurry and worry—no fuss and muss. A whole day given you to use for other things.

And at the price, it's doubly attractive.
